SULTAN'S DAUGHTER WINS DIVORCE; GROUNDS SECRET

Announcement Creates Sensation in Turkish Capital

Constantinople, July 3.—Something of a sensation is created here Saturday by the announcement by the council of the imperial family of the divorce of Princess Ulvie, daughter of the Sultan, from Dama Ismail Hinkit Bey, son of the Grand Vizier Tewfik Pasha. The grounds for the divorce were not indicated.

Princess Ulvie, thirty years old, the eldest of the Sultan's three children, and surprisingly pretty, was married in 1916 under a provision of the Koran permitting Muslims to have four wives. Her divorce is said to have been granted on relatively slight grounds. Kakiki's father, Tewfik Pasha, happened to be a member of the Advisory Council to the palace, which regulates the domestic affairs of the imperial family, and it is believed that he convinced the Sultan that the young couple would be happier separated.

ADVISES G. O. P. WOMEN

Attention Called to Right Choice of Republican Nominée

New York, July 3.—Attention of Republican women throughout the country is called to "the importance of the right choice of Republican nominees for election to Congress next November, in a statement issued yesterday by the Board of Governors of the Women's National Republican Club, of which Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, wife of the New York banker, is president.

"We believe," says the statement, "that mere party success in dispensing political patronage is not adequate qualification at this critical time in the history of the country. It will not be sufficient to elect or to re-elect men every hour until late at night—parades, public meetings, with addresses by the Rev. Guy L. Morrill, Samuel K. Stinger, Harry Marks, the Rev. J. Warren Kaufman, sports for prizes, fancy dress parade of children during the afternoon and an open-air entertainment at night.

Glenside—The Glenside Patriotic Association has been active in developing plans. The affair will start with a parade of school children, Legionnaires, Veterans of Foreign Wars, fire companies, marshaled by Captain W. Burghardt, E. E. Eriker, G. C. Rittenhouse, William Beatty. There will be an all-afternoon sports program, with trophy events and baseball games every hour until late at night.

McKinley—Arranged by the McKinley Fourth of July Observance Committee. Public Meeting, parade, reading of Declaration of Independence by Miss Hazel Hindrim, address by the Rev. John M. Groton, sports and evening entertainment.

There will be special observances in Noble, Langhorne, Hatboro, Orland, Fort Washington. The country clubs in the northern section will have special golf and tennis events and there will be many dinner parties and entertainments, followed by fireworks at night.

At the Philmont Club, the Huntingdon valley, the Old York Road, the North Hill and Lu Lu Temple Country Club the Independence Day gathering of Philadelphians is invariably large.

There will be thousands of Philadelphians in camping and picnic parties along the Neshaminy and Pennypack Creeks at points easily accessible by motortruck over the Old York road and other highways leading north from the city.

ALLEGED SCHEME TO KILL PRETTY WIDOW IS FOILED

Youth "Madly in Love" is Now in Jail at Freeport

Freeport, N. Y., July 3.—Louis Seeger is in jail today, his alleged plans to murder Mrs. Augusta Conell, pretty widow, having been frustrated.

Seeger was arrested in the home of A. W. Huntington, where he went, it is said, to kill the woman with whom he was infatuated. When taken into custody the dapper youth possessed a loaded revolver according to the police. He refused to discuss his arrest, except to say he was "madly in love" with Mrs. Conell.

Mrs. Conell has been annoyed by the young man, who, it is said, comes from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., for several weeks. She was forced to give up her apartment in New York because of his unwelcome attentions. Recently, she said, she received two letters from him, in each of which he threatened to kill her. These letters are turned over to the police.

Mrs. Conell received a letter last Wednesday, the police say, postmarked Newton, N. J. It read:

"You have just five days yet to be in Freeport. You may like this, or leave it, just as you like." "LOUIS."

'NEW PATRIOTISM' URGED BY BISHOP

Dr. Garland Pleads for the Conservation of Earth's Spiritual Forces

HITS FOREIGN ALOOFNESS

Bishop Thomas J. Garland called upon Americans to adopt "a new ideal of patriotism" at an open-air service yesterday afternoon on the site of the Episcopal Cathedral Church of Christ, on the Parkway. In his address the Bishop also took a somewhat pessimistic view of the world's affairs.

"On the threshold of this Fourth of July we do not see our hopes of a few years ago fulfilled," the Bishop told nearly 800 men and women who assembled about the open-air pulpit. "Those who predicted a better world for us, as a result of the war, have not seen the realization of their wishes. The new age has not dawned. The League of Nations has accomplished little or nothing. Even the Washington Conference, which held out such great hopes to us, appears to have accomplished little that makes for lasting peace."

"Stikes, riots, lockouts, disorders and disrespect for law reign on all sides. Truly, we have our problems, and there is little we can do to solve them."

Bishop Garland said the welfare of America and the world depends upon the cultivation of a "new patriotism" that does not, place dependence on "great armies," but on "the conservation of the spiritual forces of the nation that make for righteousness."

"God is calling upon us to be pioneers in holding up this new ideal of patriotism," the Bishop continued. "If the Christian people of America has this ideal they could save America, and America would save the world."

"Entangling alliances," working along the line of the new patriotism, were defended by the Bishop, who said: "Many persons tell us that the founders of this Nation were keenly aware of the danger of entangling alliances. There is perhaps a little truth in that statement. But I believe that if the founders of the Nation were here today, and if they were acquainted with the conditions which confront the world today, they would say, Go ahead with all the entangling alliances you want, provided they promote a reign of peace and justice and truth among mankind."

Speaking of the Sequi-Centennial, the Bishop declared that its success depended upon the spirit behind the great Exposition.

"If on the 150th anniversary of the Nation's independence we bring the nations of the world to this city in order to promote our own commerce and to impress them with America's power, the Sequi-Centennial will be a curse instead of a blessing," he said. "But if, in the spirit of our fathers, we bring the nations here to show them what educational and moral ideals have done
